“ My uncle Tony was my grandfather. He had so much patience. He taught me how to swim and to drive.

We went to Florida many times with aunt Irene and uncle Tony. All in my younger days.

When my boys got sick very sick he sat

With me in the hospital

I really loved my uncle

Thank you, Marilyn! He was true to his role as your Godfather, and I'm so glad he was involved and had an impressive impact on you!

“ Forever Brave, Forever Young written by Chris Wolf for Tony Librera, veteran of the Battle of the Bulge (December 1944) and recipient of the Bronze Star for gallantry in action

The call to arms so long ago...the heart did race towards dangers unknown

To serve was noble and courage defined...by millions of men who left families behind

The snow was deep and the frigid air froze...young bodies enraptured in war's throws

Gunfire sent bullets piercing through air...from hilltop positions...from lethal lairs

A river to cross...a day to be won...a bronze star award for one of New Jersey's sons

So many years have passed since that day...yet the thoughts are as clear as his hair is gray

I don't see an old man sitting back in his chair...I see a young warrior who's now in God's care
